

RULES

Stuff You Get

588 Questions on 200 Cards, 90 Asses (15 of Each Color), 6 Exclusion Cards, Game Board, 2 Answer Chips

What You Wanna Do

Know (or guess correctly) how other players will answer questions, and “bet” your Asses wisely to win and be able to call everyone else losers. Or you can just play and laugh and have fun without worrying about winning.

Game Foreplay

- Each player picks a color and takes those Asses. We like matching our Ass color to our shirt color. Or poop color. You decide.
- Each player takes one Exclusion Card. Just one!
- Place the Game Board in the middle of the playing area, like a table or floor or bed or hot tub...OK, maybe not a hot tub. No, that would ruin the Board...save the hot tub for after.
- Place the Cards in a pile face down so everyone can reach them, as well as the two Answer Chips (true/false chips).

How the Magic Happens

- The biggest ass goes first. We mean the person who can be the biggest jerk, not your butt size. We don't give a flip about the size of your butt.
- Take a Card and the Answer Chips, and choose one of the three questions from the Card to read aloud. Some questions are odd, some are naughty, some are gross...just go with what you feel like in the moment.
- The reader then truthfully answers the question by secretly choosing one of the Answer Chips to set face down, as their answer. Maybe give the other players a mysterious smirk to intrigue them.
- Now all other players decide how they think the reader answered the question. Place at least four of your Asses on the True and False sections of the Game Board. You decide how many to put on which area. Like, if you're confident how the reader answered, you may put the majority or all of your Asses on one area. If you're not sure, you may want to split your Asses more evenly between the two sides. You must place four or more of your Asses on the Game Board.
- After the Asses are on the Game Board, the reader reveals the answer by flipping over the Answer Chip. Big reveal...ta-da! All Asses on the correct side are taken back by players who bet them, and all Asses on the incorrect area are taken by the reader and set aside. Hopefully y'all did well...
- Play continues clockwise with players taking turns drawing Cards and reading questions.

- Exclusion Cards: The reader may play an Exclusion Card on any question. The Exclusion Card allows the reader to exclude one player from participating on that question. The reader may want to use an Exclusion Card if they think a certain player will be able to easily answer their question and possibly influence others (like the guy you're sleeping with, or a partner in crime, ya know?). If a player is excluded, they can't participate in that round.

The Climax

(probably not everyone will leave feeling satisfied)

When only one player has an Ass(es) left in play, the game ends. Now count up all the Asses you have in your possession (those you collected as a reader, and any you had left of yours if you were the last Ass standing.) The player with the most Asses wins, simple as that. Everyone else is a loser. Losers! But you had fun so you don't really care, right?

Note: If a player's eliminated before the game ends, they can still participate as question readers. 'Cuz that's the fun part, guys. Plus, you can still collect Asses!

Note: If there's a tie, then oh well. Share the victory; don't be a stingy Ass.

Semantics, Shmemantics

We don't want you to take all of the statements too literally, guys. “I have peed my pants” could be answered TRUE by pretty much everyone because we all wet ourselves as babies. But you know that's not what we mean. Also, something like “I have had sex in a car” includes pick-up trucks, too, you know? And so on. Let's not be schmucks, mmkay?

Don't Be a Lazy Ass

Occasionally you'll come across a Card with the option of making up your own true/false statements. Write in whatever the hell you want. Because we can't do everything for you.

The Full Monty Game

Wanna change things up? Variety is the spice of life! Try The Full Monty Game: Require everyone to bet ALL of their Asses each time. Any on the losing side of the board are just set aside out of play. Then, when one person is left with one Ass or more, they win. Easy peasy.

Looking for some more tail? Need an ass lift? Did you lose your ass? Well, you can buy more asses! Log onto spunkwurks.com for more info.

For more fun, visit spunkwurks.com.